1.3 Ballot Order Placement

CBJ Code 29.07.060(b) says that “the order for placement on the ballot will be established by random drawing by the election official. A drawing will be held for each race. The results of each drawing will be recorded and preserved by the election official.”

Random Drawing Procedure

Staff will write each candidate’s name on an identically sized piece of paper, in a manner that does not bleed through the other side. The papers will be shuffled, placed in an opaque container, and drawn at random, shuffling after each drawing until all candidates’ names are drawn. The first name drawn out will be the first name on the ballot, continuing until all candidate names have been drawn for that race. Each race will have its own random drawing.

Results of each drawing will be photographed and retained until after the election.
